

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A fastening belt for wrapping electric cables is an elongate belt which is used to wrap a bundle of electric cables. The belt includes a plurality of slots defined therethrough and each slot includes an operation section which is offset from the slot
5 so as to define a bending portion which can be bent outward from the belt. The cable can be extended through a hole defined by bending the bending portion.